

German Language & Culture in Berlin

German Philosophy

The German Philosophy course is designed primarily for groups of foreign school pupils with intermediate level German who are particularly interested in exploring the world of German philosophy alongside their language studies. We offer five individual modules in the following areas:

1. Arthur Schopenhauer: in Kant's footsteps?
2. Wilhelm von Humboldt and his idealistic conception of education
3. Ernst Haeckel and social Darwinism
4. Walter Benjamin and art in the age of technical reproducibility
5. Rudolf Bahro and renunciation of the GDR

We would also be pleased to hear about your own particular areas of interest and will gladly expand our repertoire to include these. The modules combine intensive study of philosophers and their historical context, with an exploration of Berlin's philosophical treasures. The knowledge of philosophical history which you will gain from the lectures will be brought to life through visits to theatres, museums, memorials, historical graveyards and the former homes of philosophers.

The prices quoted for our package offer include the following services:

- Placement test, 15 hours of tuition, course materials and certificate of participation in one of the above modules
- 2 half-day excursions + 1 full-day excursion (entry fees and local transport are not included)
- Airport transfer to and from hostel or host-family with half-board accommodation (7 days and 6 nights)
- Travel insurance package (no excess payable) + 24-hotline phone service

One free place for accompanying adults per 20 participants. For groups smaller than 10 the accompanying adults must pay for their own accommodation
